

The CLAYTON STONE Books

by Ena Jones

DISCUSSION GUIDE

CLAYTON STONE, AT YOUR SERVICE

Twelve-year-old Clayton Stone is shocked when a top-secret government organization recruits him as a decoy in a kidnapping sting. Instantly, he gets drawn into the dangerous world of covert operations in the Washington, D.C., area. Clayton's new life is full of excitement, with elaborate disguises and classified debriefings, but soon enough the real danger begins.

HC: 978-0-8234-3389-6 • Ages 8–12 • E-book available

CLAYTON STONE, FACING OFF

Now thirteen years old, Clayton Stone faces his next assignment for the Special Service, and it means adopting a new identity—indefinitely, and attending a new school. The President's son Kyle is in trouble and Clayton is the only one who can help. The chaos of undercover life keeps Clayton on his toes, but to make matters worse, it looks like Clayton will have to face off against his best friends and former lacrosse teammates in the most important game of the season! Will he be able to pull it off—and keep watch over Kyle at the same time?

HC: 978-0-8234-3648-4 • Ages 8–12 • E-book available

“There are plenty of cool gadgets and action-packed predicaments to keep middle-grade readers entertained”* in the hilarious debut novel Clayton Stone, At Your Service. This and the companion book, Clayton Stone, Facing Off are packed with humor and hijinks. Just right for reluctant readers, the books offer a thrilling plot and nonstop humor, and the spy theme will appeal to fans of the Alex Rider series. See our Discussion Starters below for lots of interesting ideas.

“What really makes this take on the kid-turned-spy story special is that it has a heart. At its core, this is a story about family. For Clayton, this means both the family he was born into and also his family of teammates. Clayton’s endearing senses of loyalty to and responsibility for both family and friends is the undercurrent that gives this story depth and sets it apart from the rest.” — *Kirkus Reviews on Clayton Stone, At Your Service

DISCUSSION STARTERS

- ❖ Opening Sentences—What grabs you about the openings of the books? What has the author written that makes you want to read more? How do the openings compare with other books you have read? As you read, are you forming a picture of Clayton Stone in your mind? Can you describe him?
- ❖ Suspense—Look carefully at the way the author ends each chapter. How do these chapter endings make you want to read more? Discuss the concept of suspense in stories with your class. Have you read (or seen) events or situations in other books (or movies) that gave you the feeling of suspense? Describe them.
- ❖ Responsibility/Obligation—Throughout the books, Clayton has to decide whether his actions will be helpful to himself, his classmates or lacrosse team, his grandma or the Special Service. Describe situations in your own life where you were torn between your responsibilities or obligations to different people. How did you decide what to do? What was the most important to you? Why?
- ❖ Risk—In Clayton Stone, At Your Service, Clayton, Clayton says, “Risk is everywhere” (p. 31). What does this phrase mean to you? How much would you be willing to risk for your family, your team or your country?
- ❖ Friendship—In Clayton Stone, At Your Service, Clayton’s friendship with Toby is very important to him. This friendship is tested many times throughout the story. Do you agree with Clayton’s actions regarding Toby? Describe a situation you’ve been in where you had to betray a friend for a seemingly greater reason. How did you handle it? How did you rekindle the friendship?
- ❖ Secrets—Clayton had to keep many secrets during the time in which the stories take place. Have you ever had to keep secrets? How did it make you feel, and how did you handle it?
- ❖ Ethics—In Clayton Stone, At Your Service, do you feel it was ethical for the Special Service to use a twelve-year-old kid to solve the kidnapping case? Should they have allowed a kid to be put in such dangerous situations? Why or why not?
- ❖ Sports—Clayton felt that his experiences with his lacrosse team prepared him for his work with the Special Service as well as for life. Explain why you agree or disagree with the idea that sports can prepare you for other activities in your life. Describe your own experiences.
- ❖ Family—At the end of Clayton Stone, At Your Service, Clayton realizes that his team is like a family and that Captain Thompson seems like a father to him. What is your definition of family? Describe people that you consider family, even though they are not related by blood.

The above questions can be discussed as a whole class, in small groups or used as prompts for writing: CCSS L.3-5.1-3; W.3-5.1; SL.3-5.1; RL.3-5.3.

CLASSROOM EXTENSIONS

Language Arts

Similes and Metaphors—Be sure students are aware of both of these literary techniques, which the author uses throughout the books. As you read, keep two lists—one for similes and one for metaphors. You can share these with your class or each other. Practice creating your own similes and metaphors. CCSS L.3-5.5

Vocabulary

Students may be unfamiliar with some of the terms used in the stories. In Clayton Stone, At Your Service: geriatric (p. 33), jurisdiction (p. 43), micromanagement (p. 10), parameters (p. 7), paranoid (p. 8), protocol (p. 81), Richter scale (p. 17), sporadically (p. 14) and others.

In Clayton Stone, Facing Off: agility (p. 43), tactical (p. 48), clamoring (p. 55), Witness Protection (p. 47), adrenaline (p. 196). Encourage students to search print or online dictionaries to define these words for better understanding of the story. CCSS L.3-5.4

For additional discussion questions with correlations to the Instructional Standards, see the individual book pages for Clayton Stone, At Your Service and Clayton Stone, Facing Off at www.holidayhouse.com.

Prepared by Sandy Schuckett, school library consultant

About the Author

Ena Jones wrote for local family magazines until she began reading books aloud to her young children. After rediscovering her love of children's literature, her writing took a new path. Clayton Stone, At Your Service is her first novel. It's companion title is Clayton Stone, Facing Off. Ena lives with her family in North Carolina. For more about the author, visit <http://enajones.com/>.