by Tedd Arnold
Martha Hamilton
and Mitch Weiss

illustrated by Tedd Arnold
To the young reader who finished our first few Noodlehead books and asked if there were any more. This one's for you, Calvin!
—Tedd, Martha, and Mitch
Where do we get knowledge?

Good question. Let's ask someone in here.

So, there's knowledge in books!

Look at mine!

Here's mine!

Now, we fill our heads with these books full of knowledge?

No, I think we read them and the knowledge will fill our heads. Like magic!

That's a relief!

Hey, here's a joke.
What is the tallest building in the world? I give up.
The library. It has the most stories!
I don’t get it. Me neither.
Knowledge is hard.
Maybe your book is easier.

My book is all about the Fortress of Doom!
Hey, Mac, what’s all this wood in our backyard?

CHAPTER 1
IF WE BUILD IT...