- Color Missy and Mason

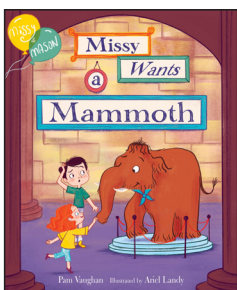

First-grader Missy pushes the bounds of her imagination—and her older brother Mason’s patience—as she lays out her plan for a new pet. A must-have for fans of Charlie and Lola and Olivia or anyone crafting a case for why they need a new animal addition to the family.

MEET THE CREATORS

Pam Vaughan lives with her family across from a pond on a cul-de-sac in central Massachusetts. She’s the director of Whispering Pines Writers’ Retreat and co-ARA of New England’s SCBWI chapter. When she’s not writing books for kids, she loves walking in the woods and playing ice hockey. Missy Wants a Mammoth is her first book. She lives in Massachusetts.

Ariel Landy: As soon as Ariel learned how to draw a sky beyond a blue scribbled line, she knew she wanted to be an illustrator. Although raised on coloring books and crayons outside of Boston, she now lives in the south of France. She is drawn to themes of the underdog, human and animal friendships, and adventurous imagination, which you can see in her illustrations in books including the Good Dog series by Cam Higgins, Brand-New Bubbe by Sarah Aronson, and Make More S’mores by Cathy Ballou Mealey.
